

Historic, archived document

Do not assume content reflects current scientific knowledge, policies, or practices.

1
A 584 M
#847
top 2

LAW SCHOOL
STUDENTS AND GRADUATES

Make Your LEGAL TRAINING
Count

Consider Your Opportunity as a Lawyer in the
U. S. Department of Agriculture

Miscellaneous Publication No. 847

OFFICE OF THE GENERAL COUNSEL • UNITED STATES DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

THE DEPARTMENT'S MISSION

President Lincoln said the Department of Agriculture is the "people's department."

This description is truer today than when the Department was established in 1862. For—perhaps more than any other Government agency—the activities of the Department of Agriculture affect all of us. Modern farming, the Nation's biggest business, has undergone an unprecedented scientific revolution in the last 20 years. The Department's manifold programs are designed to improve the production, distribution, and utilization of agricultural products, to conserve our natural resources, and to protect farm prices and income.

YOUR OPPORTUNITY

Legal work of unusual variety and responsibility in a 200-man law office.

You will find in the Office of the General Counsel of the Department of Agriculture an opportunity for a stimulating and rewarding career in both public and private law. You will handle many challenging legal matters and will participate in actions having a significant impact on the national economy. Here are some of the fields of law and program areas you may encounter.

Administrative Law—including formal administrative and court proceedings under more than 50 major regulatory statutes.

Trial and Appellate Litigation—handling difficult and important cases in the various Federal and State courts.

Business and Corporate Law—relating to the operation of the Commodity Credit Corporation, one of the world's largest corporations, and to the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation.

Legislative Drafting and Interpretation—of major farm bills and statutes.

Domestic Farm Law—dealing with varied programs of far-reaching significance to the national economy.

Agricultural Credit—involving loans for farm acquisition, improvement and operation.

Utility Financing—relating to REA loans for the construction and operation of electric and telephone systems.

Foreign Market Development—for U.S. agricultural products and improvement of the U.S. position abroad.

Forestry, Land, and Water Law—in the administration of our national forests and soil and water conservation programs.

Management and Research—requiring a variety of legal services as “house counsel” for the Department.

Patent Law—in patent proceedings relating to important discoveries by Department scientists.

Federal-States Relations—presenting novel legal problems requiring the balancing of State and Federal interests.

Starting Salaries

Graduation from an accredited law school in the upper 15 percent of your class—or special honors or recognition—and admission to the bar, qualifies you for consideration under the GENERAL COUNSEL’S HONOR GRADUATES PROGRAM. The beginning salary for those appointed under this program is $6,435 a year (GS-9). Those accredited law school graduates who do not qualify under the Honor Graduates Program are considered for appointment at a beginning salary of $5,355 a year (GS-7).

Employee Benefits

- Life and health insurance at low cost
- Vacation and sick leave with pay
- Compensation for injury or death occurring in the line of duty and
- Retirement coverage

Graduate Study

A number of outstanding universities in Washington, and other locations where the General Counsel has field offices, maintain law centers for advanced study.

How To Apply

Application forms and additional information may be obtained from:

Personnel Officer
Office of the General Counsel
U.S. Department of Agriculture
Washington 25, D.C.

Representatives of the Office of the General Counsel may visit some law schools during the school year. Graduates and students who visit Washington are encouraged to contact the Personnel Officer for personal interviews. Ask your law school office or placement officer for detailed brochure.

Washington, D.C.

Issued March 1961